

CV

Martin Lauritzen, born in 1952, Professor of Clinical Neurophysiology and Translational Neurobiology, University of Copenhagen and Head, Department of Clinical Neurophysiology, Glostrup Hospital.

Education: M.D., 1978, University of Copenhagen, Denmark; Research Fellow 1981-1986, Neurology and Neurophysiology, University of Copenhagen and New York University Medical Centre, Fulbright Fellow, 1985-1986; dr.med. in 1988. Clinical education at Copenhagen University Hospitals. Board certified specialist in Clinical Neurophysiology in 1993.

Appointments and other professional activities: 1994-2011, Head, Department of Clinical Neurophysiology, Glostrup Hospital, since May 2011 consultant; 1998-present, professor of Clinical Neurophysiology, University of Copenhagen; 2007-present, professor of Translational Neurobiology, University of Copenhagen; 2004, Visiting Professor, Humboldt University, Germany.

Director, Lundbeck Foundation Research Initiative on Brain Barriers and Drug Delivery since 2014.

Honors: 1982, Harold G. Wolff Award (American Headache Association). 1987 Award of the Danish Neurological Society and Danish Migraine Society. 1992, Arnold Friedman Distinguished Clinician/Researcher Award (American Headache Association). 2004, Humboldt Research Award in Medicine (Alexander von Humboldt Stiftung, Germany).

International positions as evaluator (selection): Bi-national Science Foundation (USA – Israel), Third World Academy of Science; Grant Academy of Czech Republic; The Migraine Trust, UK; Wellcome Foundation, UK; Suisse Research Grant Agency; MRC, UK; Royal Society, UK; Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft, Germany. TUBITAK, Turkish Scientific Agency; MRC Canada, numerous French Scientific Agencies, Austrian Academy of Sciences..

International Scientific Advisory Board Member: Max-Planck Institute for Neurology, Cologne, Germany 2008-2010, and Max-Planck Institute for Cognitive Neuroscience, Leipzig, since 2009.

Editorial Board, Clinical Neurophysiology 2000-2005; Journal of Cerebral Blood Flow & Metabolism 2006-2009. Editor, Neuroimage 2008-2010; associate Editor, Frontiers in Neuroscience since 2009. Editor-in-chief, Journal of Cerebral Blood Flow & Metabolism, since 2009. More than 150 publications in international journals and books, more than 100 invited lectures at international meetings. Supervisor for 10 Ph.D. students and 1 dr.med.thesis. Supervisor for more than 20 bachelor and master medical students, and 4 biology students.